Description :

PDF-03fe5 | From the beginning of European trade and conquest overseas, Europeans have known they died from the effect of the strange "climate." Later, they came to understand that it was disease, not climate, that killed, but the fact remained that every trading voyage, every military expedition beyond Europe, had its price in European lives lost. For European soldiers in the tropics at the beginning of the ... Death by Migration: Europe's Encounter with the Tropical World in the Nineteenth Century
