Description :

PDF-053ff | The first English voyages solely to Guinea were previously known mainly through accounts in Eden and Hakluyt. They can be seen here through the wills of 90 men who died on the voyages. These wills depict in detail the shipboard life of Tudor sailors, and provide the earliest records of any English long-distance seafaring. Of the 1,000 or so men serving on these voyages, some 400 are named in the w... English Seamen and Traders in Guinea 1553-1565: The New Evidence of Their Wills (Studies in British History)
